Glee Club Presentations Highlight The Weekend

The Madison College Glee Club under the direction of Edna T. Shaef-fer and accompanied by Peggy Snider, pianist, will present its annual Christmas Vespers Saturday, December 17, at 8:00 p.m., and Sunday, December 18, at 4:00 p.m.

Officers of the Glee Club are: President, Elizabeth Jamerson; vice president, Dorothy Wainwright; secretary, Jeanette Coche; business manager, Peggy Carter, and librarian, Shirley Quinn.

The visiting chorus Saturday will be that of the Virginia Military Institute directed by Lt. Col. Herbert Nash Dillard. George Raymond Hicks and Robert Waller of the Madison music faculty are to be the guests organists for the occasions.

The college glee club soloists will include Elizabeth Jamerson at the organ and Fae Wilson, a mezzo soprano, in a vocal selection. Incidental solos are to be sung by Mary Margaret Purcell, Mary Lou Musser, Norma Dukes, and Martha Ann Snyder.

GLEE CLUB PREXY

In the annual Yuletide presentation for this year, traditional carols of many lands will be used, including songs of the English Waits and carols of France, Spain, England, and Germany.

On Saturday night the Madison and VMI Glee Clubs will unit in singing the following numbers: Beautiful Savoir by Christianson, Pat-a-Pon Burgundian Carol, The Shepherd's Story by Dickinson and the Hallelu- jah Chorus by Handel. All the preceding selections will be under the direction of Colonel Herbert N. Dillard. The organist will be George Raymond Hicks.

Special features Sunday afternoon have also been planned. Organ selections by Robert Waller, a Julliard graduate and a recent addition to the music faculty, along with a solo by Fae Wilson of Portsmouth have been scheduled. A dramatization in tableau form of "The Nativity" played on the organ by Mr. Waller will also be presented. Prayer and Benediction will be offered by Reverend Albert G. Edwards and Reverend Paul Helm at the two programs.

At both programs a "Fantasy" suggesting the celebration of Christmas in the days of James Madison and ending with a glimpse of the present day Madison College Christmas will take place.

It has through the years become traditional for the Glee Club to present an original fantasy which has made their programs individual. The script for this year's production was written by Ollie Vee Walpole. Narrator will be Retha Shirkey.

Assisted by an efficient stage crew, Clifford T. Marshall will be in charge of staging and lighting. For a number of years Mr. Marshall has worked with Miss Schaeffer and the Glee Club to make the Christmas presentation one of outstanding programs of the season. The stage crew includes: Clifford T. Marshall, Wells Peabworth, Fae Wilson, Frances Trevett, Nora Euton, Grace Matz and Elizabeth McFarland.

Ushering will be in charge of Charlotte Boice and the Lyceum ushering group.

Usually a large audience has given evidence of wide spread interest in this seasonal program, and by presenting this program twice, it is hoped that all who wish to attend may do so.

The Madonna

Joanne Craig played the coveted role of the Madonna in the joint YWCA-YMCA presentation of a tableau, "The Christmas Story," last night. Although kept a secret on campus until the revelation in Wilson Hall auditorium last night, the choice of the Madonna was made by the girls of Madison in a recent election.

In the tableau, which was written by Martha Thomas, and was directed by Elizabeth Jamerson, Carl Ring, and Miss Thomas, the First Angel was portrayed by Mattie Jett, with Dot Herbert, Eloise Miller, Irene Munson, and Florence Perkinson serving as the other angels.

A native of Bassett, Joanne now hails from Axton, in Henry County, where she was graduated from the high school. Upon entering Madison College in 1946, she immediately added her vocal talents to the efforts of the Choral club, transferring them to the Glee club of which she is now a member.

Holding membership (and the post of business manager) in the Bluestone Cotillion club, the YWCA, the BSU, and the Frances Sale Club (Jo is a home economics education major), the girl who played the central role in the Y tableau is a member of Sigma Sigma social sorority. After serving on the college's entertainment committee which plans the Lyceum programs on campus, as vice-president of Senior Hall, and as a member of the social committee of SGA, Joanne topped her college career with her election by Madison's students to the post of editor of the Student Handbook.

During this, her senior year, Jo has served as a counselor to the freshmen, and was recently initiated into Kappa Delta Pi, an honor society in education.

Major Officers Senior Prexy Are Honored

Among the fifteen Madison College students who have been named to "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges" and who will be listed in the publication are the six major officers on campus, the Senior class prexy, and eight other members of the Senior class.

The major officers thus honored are: Nancy, Ruth Penn, Mattie Jannette Jett, Evelyn Jackson Tubbs, Retha Athey Shirkey, Kittie Jean Blakemore, and Martha Ree Thomas. The Senior president is Fern Elizabeth Waters, and the others listed are: Barbara Webb Banish, Joyce Eleanor Cramer, Mary Elizabeth Hurdle, Irene Florence Munson, Jean Marie Parker, Florence Joyner Perkinson, Jean Ann Snedegar, and Sarah Elizabeth Strader.

Activities Listed

Nancy Penn, president of Student Government Association, hails from Roanoke. A member of Pi Kappa Sigma social sorority and Cotillion Dance club, Nancy has during her Madison years served as president of Spottswood dormitory and as vice-president of Freshman commission, and has been a member of the impaneling board of SGA, standards committee, the YWCA, the Granddaughters club, student-faculty committee, and Student Council.

Mattie Jett, of Floyd, chairman of the Honor Council, is a member of Alpha Sigma Tau social sorority. A history and social sciences major in secondary education, Mattie has served during her four years here as a Junior Marshal and as a member of the Honor Council, Standards committee, and German club.

Hailing from Wyoming, Delaware, Evelyn J. Tubbs is an English major in Curriculum II who is studying at Madison under the GI Bill of Rights. E. J., who entered Madison in June 1948, is editor-in-chief of The Breeze, after having served as a cub reporter during her Junior year. A member of Le Cercle Français and Pi Kappa Sigma social sorority, Tubbs served as a representative to the Student Council during the summer session of 1949. A former private secretary, WAC, and newspaperwoman, Tubbs is to be initiated into Kappa Delta Pi, honor society in education, this evening.

Retha Shirkey, of Winchester, editor-in-chief of the annual, Schoolma'am, has been a member of the Glee club since she matriculated at Madison. A member of Alpha Sigma Tau social sorority, Retha has been a member of the Westminster Fellowship, the Clara Barton club, the Modern Dance club, Sigma Phi Lambda, and the Mathematics club. A member of the YWCA, Retha is serving as a Senior counselor this year. Prior to her election to the editorship of the annual, she served as assistant editor.

President of the Athletic Association, Kittie Blakemore, comes from Manassas. A member of Kappa Delta Pi honor society and Theta Sigma Upsilon social sorority, Kittie is serving as a Senior counselor and on the AA Council. During her Madison years, she has been a member of Wesley Foundation, the Mercury club, YWCA, the Tennis club, the Modern

Dr. Goodykoontz Will Speak Here

Dr. Bess Goodykoontz, who has been appointed associate commissioner in the Office of Education, Federal Security Agency, will be the guest speaker of Kappa Delta Pi on January 11 on the assembly program.

Dr. Goodykoontz has served in the Office of Education since 1929, for some years as Assistant Commissioner and, later, as Director of the Division of Elementary Education. In 1946 she served as a member of the Educational Mission to Germany to survey the educational situation for the office of Military Government for Germany and to formulate recommendations for the accomplishment of U. S. objectives.

Dr. Goodykoontz has served as a member and officer of many educational organizations, including American Association of University of Women, National Council of Administrative Women in Education, National Education Association, American Education Research Association, and Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development.

A Child Is Born!

And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying,

Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

—Luke 2: 7-14

Peace On Earth?

"Peace on earth, good will toward men." We hear this familiar strain at every turn now. Our hearts, our minds, our bodies, all are filled with Christmas. Yet, an haunting strain of an altogether different type keeps creeping into our thoughts. For even as the front pages were filled with gay articles and sparkling ads, we found in the back pages of the Sunday New York Times, a small but startling reminder of our constant fear.

Quoted here, we hope it will present a challenge so deep that the "Peace on earth, good will toward men", which we sing with our lips, will be echoed in our hearts, and practiced in our lives.

"Let not the atom bomb

Be the final sequel—

In which all men—

Are cremated equal."

It's Hard To Say

We have read countless articles by music critics and others interested in that field concerning the cycles in which popular songs run, how these songs arrive in a certain position in said cycles, etc. Better qualified persons than we have wondered why latest hits have come to be called just that, but, for now, let us consider those songs popular on our own campus.

It is obvious why "White Christmas" and other seasonal selections like "Santa Claus Is Coming To Town" and "I'll Be Home For Christmas" are popular at the Yuletide season. This year, however, another song has come to rank among those top few just mentioned—"Blue Christmas". From all evidences on "Doc's" juke box results, it is running a close pace with its companion piece as sung by Crosby. According to the hit parade of recent weeks, a sentimental number entitled "Don't Cry Joe" maintained top weekly billing for quite a while, but now it seems to be going to the place all 'good' songs go—out! "I Can Dream Can't I?" has been the slow dream tune most of us here at Madison have been humming lately but we are all just wondering how long that will stay.

The question still at hand remains: How do songs get popular and why? Of course, we all realize there are publicity campaigns arranged, contracts signed, vocalists paid . . . all to make one song the "latest hit". Occasionally there are even new songs that pop up which are really good and need no such campaigns, but seldom does this happen according to the critics. Check your list of top popular favorites for a minute and see if every song listed is not of the sad, lonely, or lovesick variety. Even that last statement is questionable, for in what class, catagorie, or variety can "Mule Train" with all its rip-roaring whip-cracking and mule shouting be classified? We all agree then that there is absolutely no method of predicting what we at Madison or in the world as a whole will like next in popular music. The undertaking of such a task is an impossible one, so let's just sit back and accept, wholeheartedly, but sometimes with "tongue-in-cheek", what's to come next.

Basketball Pledges

"Without your support, they can't go on the court" is a familiar phrase to each of us now.

The "Dukes" wish to express their appreciation for the interest shown in their team as evidenced by the number of pledges for support that have been received to date. However, only about half the number of pledges hoped for and needed have been received. Won't you support the "Dukes"? For your convenience, the pledge form appears below.

I, _____, pledge to support the Madison "Dukes", the amount to be set at a later date, not exceeding 75c.

Foreign Students Tell Of Yuletide Customs

by Mildred Davis

The Christmas season is one of the happiest times of the year all over the world. Each country has its own special customs to observe but the spirit is much the same everywhere. Our students from other nations, Lotte Zoll of Germany, Evie Alberty of Puerto Rico, and Wendy Mulder of England, have given us some interesting sidelights of Christmas in their homes.

In Germany the Christmas season begins at the end of November, and on December 6 the annual visit of Sankt Nikolaus comes. This visit is made by a real person dressed in costume, carrying a huge bag of toys and goodies and a roll book filled with the deeds of the children for the past year. Sankt Nikolaus visits every home and Lotte remembers having once played the role herself.

December 24 is a day of quiet family gatherings in Germany and the high point of the day is the Christmas tree and all the gifts under it. Christmas day is characterized by church services where the young people take part in re-enactments of the Christmas story. The days before Christmas are times for carolling when the young people dress as Wise Men or the Three Kings and are given apples, candy, and other goodies by the people whose homes they visit.

January 6 is the big day in Puerto Rico for on the night of the fifth the children are visited by the "Three Kings" who bring many gifts which are left under the tree or under the beds. Christmas day, December 25, marks the real beginning of the Christmas season and the usual pageants and music are present in churches everywhere.

Evie tells us that one of the highlights of the Christmas season comes when the young people gather late at night and visit someone's home singing carols. The visitors are invited in and a big party follows with dancing, singing, and feasting, often lasting until early morning. These surprise visits are expected by everyone and there is always plenty of Christmas food and drink for all.

The English celebration of Christmas is more similar to ours than any other, probably because our background is so predominantly English. Wendy tells us that the young people who go carolling are rewarded with mince pies which are eaten only at Christmas time. Saint Nicholas fills the stockings on Christmas Eve and there is a short church service on Christmas day, followed by a big dinner. The gifts under the tree are saved until Christmas night when the family gathers together for a joyous evening.

Perhaps more characteristic of the English particularly is the tea and crumpets served on Christmas afternoon.

MAD-CHAT

by Irene Munson

"I'll Be Home For Christmas" . . . we need say no more. In fact Madison chat this week amounts to just about that, for Tuesday noon will see a mass exodus from the campus homeward. Students, grateful for the four-hour or thereabouts extension of vacation, are making plans, packing suitcases (already), and doing that last minute shopping that there will be no time for when the hometown Christmas gayety gets in full swing . . . They say it's an inspiration to go downtown this week here, but the campus whirlpool has most of us whirling so fast that there is no time for jaunts.

The Y's, in collaboration for the first time, did a grand job of presenting an awe-inspiring pageant for us last night. Tomorrow night the Madison-VMJ Glee Club program will be given, and Sunday the Madison group will solo in its usual impressive holiday service. Be sure, too, not to miss Christmas musical programs at the local churches this weekend.

'Tis bouquet time at Madison again, and we have many accolades this week . . . Congratulations to the Panhellenic Association for one of the nicest dances seen here . . . Bouquets, too, to the groups presenting the enjoyable assembly program on Wednesday . . . Congratulation to the faculty for the splendid organized and well carried-out inauguration. Barring the nasty, and unforeseeable weather, the day passed happily for all concerned. In fact, students, usually as grumpy as bears when deprived of a meal, were heard praising the dietician's staff for the excellent "supper bags" . . . There was even a murmur, interpreted thusly—why not something like this on Sundays, too . . . !

Dance club, and has participated in extramural hockey, basketball and softball. She has also taken part in all intramural sports.

President of the Young Women's Christian Association, Martha Thomas, of Danville, is a member of Sigma Sigma social sorority. Martie has served four years on the YW Cabinet and at one time was secretary of the Freshman commission. During her stay at Madison, she has been or is a member of Wesley Foundation Cabinet, The Breeze staff, Sigma Phi Lambda, German club, Kappa Delta Pi, the International Relations club, Le Cercle Francais, Scribblers, and the Honor Council.

Coming to Madison from Richmond, Fern Waters, Senior class prexy, is a member of Alpha Sigma Tau social sorority, of Kappa Delta Pi honor society, and of the Mercury club. In addition to her Senior class presidency, Fern is also president of Junior Hall. She has been a member of the Social committee, of German club, of Le Cercle Francais, and as a Freshman also served as president of Spottswood Hall.

Barbara Banish, president of Kappa Delta Pi, honor society in education, is a member of Alpha Sigma Tau social sorority and is serving as a Senior counselor this year. While at Madison, Barbara has been a representative to the Honor Council, the vice-president of Sigma Phi Lambda, and a member of Mercury club, the YWCA, and of Cotillion club. When a Freshman, Barb was a dormitory president.

From Sutton, Massachusetts, comes Joyce Cramer, a member of Scribblers, honorary literary society, for three years and now serving as its president. A member of Le Cercle Francais during her four years at Madison, Joyce has served as its president and as editor of the French newspaper. A member of Sigma Sigma social sorority, she is the copy editor on The Schoolma'am staff and has worked on that publication on the art staff and as feature editor. Joyce served as associate editor of the Madison Quarterly last year and at one time was a member of The Breeze staff, of the Art club, and Sigma Phi Lambda. A YW member, Joyce has had her poetry published by the National Poetry Association and the Twentieth Century Press. In 1947 she held a Mademoiselle college board membership.

Betty Hurdle hails from Salisbury, Maryland. Chairman of Standards committee, Betty is a member of Pi Kappa Sigma social sorority, of Frances Sale club and the YWCA. Vice-president of the Senior class, she is also business manager of German Dance club. While at Madison, Betty has been a member of Sigma Phi Lambda, Westminster Fellowship, the Porpoise club, and the Schoolma'am staff.

From Arlington comes Irene Munson, recorder-of-points of the Student Government Association. For three years a member of The Breeze staff in roles of desk, make-up, copy, and news editor, Irene is this year a contributing columnist. A member of Sigma Sigma social sorority, Kappa Delta Pi honor society, Scribblers, and the YWCA, she has in years prior to this served on the Schoolma'am staff, on the Wesley Foundation Cabinet, and in several other representative posts. A member of German club, acting as its reporter, Irene is also a student representative on the Madison Quarterly board.

Jean Parker, of Portsmouth, recently chosen "Miss Madison" for 1949-50, is a member of Sigma Sigma social sorority, as well as president of the Bluestone Cotillion club. Jean served as vice-president, and later as president of the Junior class last year, and now is secretary of the Senior class. In previous years, she was president of Freshman commission, vice-

Alexandria is the home town of Florence Perkinson, president of Theta Sigma Upsilon social sorority. Florence holds membership in the YWCA Cabinet, the Cotillion club, the Business club, Pi Omega Pi, and Panhellenic Council, and was formerly head Junior Marshal, a member of the Student Council, and a member of Wesley Foundation.

Jean Ann Snedegar, of Roanoke, though as a Freshman belonged to the Glee club, transferred her musical talents to the college orchestra and band for the rest of her sojourn at Madison. In addition to these two musical groups, Jean is a member of the Diapason club, of Kappa Delta Pi, and of Alpha Sigma Tau social sorority. Jean is serving as secretary of the YW Cabinet, as chaplain of her sorority, and as secretary-treasurer of the Concert orchestra. In addition, she plays with the Lost Chords dance orchestra and is a member of the German club.

Sarah Strader calls Pearisburg home. The business manager of The School-ma'am is a member of Alpha Sigma Tau social sorority, and has played with the college orchestra during her four years at Madison. A member of Scribblers, of Pi Omega Pi, the Business club, and the YWCA, "Susie" was formerly a member of Sigma Phi Lambda and served as an usher last year. She acts as reporter for the orchestra and treasurer of her sorority.

STUDENT COURSES ABROAD

Foreign universities, particularly in Europe, sponsor some forty to fifty different courses designed for visiting students. Some universities specialize in languages, while the Italian universities emphasize the cultural aspects of their country. The Scandinavian countries have developed an extensive program, dealing with present day co-operative and socialistic government programs.

President Suggests Ways To Meet Teacher Shortage

George Tyler Miller was formally inducted as Madison's third president at ceremonies held in Wilson Hall auditorium Saturday.

In his inaugural address, the president advocated making this woman's college a full coeducational school to help meet the shortage of elementary teachers in Virginia. Among other steps to get more elementary teachers, Mr. Miller suggested "a study of the advisability of revising the present teacher curriculum to provide for more common elements in the fields of elementary and secondary education, so that there may be fewer barriers which prevent students from transferring from one curriculum to the other."

Madison's new prexy also advocated inaugurating postgraduate programs for secondary school teachers and liberal arts graduates to prepare them to teach in the elementary grades; further development and strengthening of college guidance and consultation services; introduction of graduate programs for elementary school teachers, principals and supervisors, and "the study on a cooperative basis with the University of Virginia and VPI of general and specialized fields for secondary school teachers."

Highlighting the installation exercises was the address of Dr. J. Hillis Miller, president of the University of Florida, who declared: "Education should guide students toward work which is personally satisfying and socially useful, and it should look toward a reorganization of our social and economic orders so that we can put more of our human resources to work." Speaking on "Criticisms of the College, Regular and Special," the Florida school head averred that it is "encouraging to note that there are powerful voices today that are trying to bridge the gap between liberal education on the one hand and vocational or professional education on the other."

President emeritus Samuel P. Duke was praised for his 30-year record at Madison College by Dean M'Ledge Moffett, of Radford College. Governor William M. Tuck, other state officials, and heads of college and universities in Virginia and from out of state also participated in the exercises.

Hindu Family Visits Main Street School

If you think student teaching is dull and uneventful, just ask Mary Cobb, Joanne Mathews, and Frances Viar who tell the following story:

On Thursday, December 8, a mother of one of the boys in the fifth grade was in a local dentist's office, waiting the dreaded procedure. To the surprise of all those in the waiting room, in walked a family of Hindus. They were Mr. and Mrs. Utamchand Shah and their two children, Jayshree and Prabodh.

Prabodh, the eight year-old boy, had a dreadful toothache and the family had stopped in Harrisonburg on their way to Florida to find someone who could pull Prabodh's tooth. Because of his full schedule, the dentist had no time open, but the mother of the fifth grader graciously gave her appointment to the suffering boy.

In return for the favor, the Hindu family visited the fifth grade at Main Street—to the delight of the boys and also of the student teachers and that interesting personality, the supervisor.

The children were especially interested in the native costume of Mrs. Shah and in the language the family spoke. The two entirely different groups exchanged National Anthems in song. Christmas customs in India as related by the family fascinated the American children. At the end of the hour, the fifth graders were proudly exercising their newly-acquired knowledge of the Hindu language. They were gaily wishing each other a Merry "Diwalla"—you guessed it—Hindu for Christmas.

Jayshree and Prabodh left with their arms full of gifts the fifth graders had given them and their hearts full of memories of an hour in a Virginia school.

Margaret Webster Brings Players In "Julius Caesar"

"Julius Caesar" by William Shakespeare will be presented in Wilson auditorium, January 10, 1950 at eight o'clock p.m.

The play is presented by the Margaret Webster Shakespeare Company which is now making its second national tour. Miss Webster started her company in the spring of 1947, leaving a successful career as a Broadway director to bring Shakespeare to the smaller communities in the nation. The first season included performances of "Macbeth" and "Hamlet" and again this year the company is doing Shakespeare by popular demand although they plan to do other works in the future.

Highly praised by stage critics everywhere for her directing, Miss Webster gives much of the credit to her actors, among whom Louisa Horton, Kendall Clark, and David Lewis are outstanding. The director herself is the daughter of a well-known English actress and actor, Dame May Whitty, and Ben Webster.

"Julius Caesar" is presented in modern dress instead of the traditional Roman costume because Miss Webster says "... its themes do not belong only to the period of classic Rome, nor to that of Elizabethan England. They belong to us also."

The play is brought to Madison as a lyceum feature and students will be admitted on their lyceum tickets. The cost for reserved seats is otherwise $2, plus tax. This is the first lyceum program this year, but a second will be presented March 11, 1950 when the National Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Howard Mitchell will appear.

Pi Omega Pi Meets

Pi Omega Pi, national honorary business education fraternity for students with high scholastic standing in business, held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday, December 13. Mary Mears, president of the local Beta Nu chapter, was in charge.

The program was under the direction of Raymond Horn who showed films prepared by the Federal Civil Service Commission on requirements for secretaries and other office employees. Refreshments were served.

From the school housing section of the Office of Education comes the remark that America needs $10,000,000,000 for physical plant facilities for elementary and secondary schools during the next ten years. This department estimates that school children will number 21,600,000 in 1950 and 26,600,000 in 1960.

The Spotlight..

by Bess C. Bryant

Correction, please! And my apologies to all those people who noticed the mistakes that I made in my last week's column. I hasten to redeem myself by saying that Madison students have been bowling on Friday afternoons at the Lucky Strike Bowling Alley from 4:30 until 5:30 for ten cents.

Did you attend the boys' basketball game in the gym on Monday night? It seems that many of the students did if we can judge by the crowded balcony and the solid line around the floor. And everyone seemed to enjoy seeing the Dukes in action, even if they did come out on the short end of a 70-46 score with the freshman Generals from W. and L. While we're talking about the boys' team, did all of you see the plea for help in last week's Breeze? Don't forget to fill out the pledge in either that paper or this one and drop it in the box provided for them in the P. O. lobby.

Already the Modern Dance girls have begun practicing, we hear, for the program they will give in Greensboro next spring. We know they'll give a good show for the glory of Madison!

Final tryouts were held this week for the extramural basketball team here on campus. Congratulations to the lucky girls who made the team! We'll be waiting to see you play.

Shooting the goals for the intramural teams, Ashby II and Junior I played the first game on the League circuit Tuesday night. Let's keep the interest high and be sure to support our teams! Their success depends on us!

EAGLE SPEAKS

On Tuesday evening, Alfred K. Eagle, professor of guidance and director of student guidance and personnel, spoke before a group of Winchester city school teachers on the topic "Improving the School Guidance Program."

On Thursday, the Madison professor addressed the New Hope Parent-Teacher's Association, Augusta County, on guidance in the elementary school.

CAMPUS PARTIES

Monday night the campus will be a reflection of gay colored lights. The freshmen will have their first Christmas party at Madison, the seniors their last. There will be a party in each dorm to end the Yuletide season at Madison. And, the usual ending to the parties will be, "wish you a Merry Christmas!"
